Semenov

Teenagers have got a lot of various lessons: Chemistry, Physics, Maths, Science and many others. Physical Education is one of the lessons that students have to attend. Many young people treat PE as an abomination, some of them simply miss these lessons on intention. This is a very bad situation because PE lessons make teenagers do exercises and other physical activities. It is very important to practise sports in your teens, and it should be done regularly, not only 3 days a week. 84

Firstly, sport keeps your health at a good state and makes you feel better overall. In addition, you can improve your health by practising certain kinds of sports, like swimming or yoga. Exercising also keeps your body fit, thus making you think better of your own appearance. 131

Secondly, sports can give you new opportunities in social life. You can train hard in one sport that you like, take part in competitions or contests and achieve victory, for example. If you have high results in some kind of sport, you might gain a good reputation among people. Or you can simply go to the gym and meet new people here. 193

In conclusion, exercises and sports are very important in our daily lives. Every person should realise it and try to do physical activities regularly, even if it is a short morning exercise.
