Writing

Nowadays, the amount of people <sup>who</sup> frequently changing their careers and places of residence during their lives is raising. And in my essay I'm going to explain why ~~did~~ this tendency appear and whether it is a positive or negative development.

First of all, <sup>in</sup> society and its spheres are changing very often these days and, of course, its needs are changing too. The thing is, that many jobs, which were very valuable and highly-paid in the past, now became almost useless. For example, factory worker. How much use he is when in our time there are more capable and faster robot hands?

Although, I think it is a positive development because, as I've said before, it shows the progression of the society, how people are trying to get further and gain more knowledge. And those workers, which were left without a job, is a price to pay for progress.

On the other hand, people change their careers and leave their homes not only because their job is no more valuable, but also because they feel uncomfortable. Now everyone can change the job, <sup>easily</sup> unlike people in the past. For example, my mother was studying to become psychologist, but she became <sup>a</sup> makeup specialist.

In conclusion, I want to say, that people <sup>who</sup> changing their careers show us the progress of humanity, and, of course, it is a positive development.
