Nowadays, there are so many different food to eat. Most of the food that teenagers often eat is not that healthy. Fast food is so popular among minors now. But eating all this junk food is leading to the overweightness. So, is it important to practise a sport regularly when you are in your teens?

Actually, doing any sport and lead a healthy lifestyle is always important. Especially when you are a teenager, and you have your body changes. You can gain weight easily. That is why it is necessary to eat healthy food and go to the gym or do any other activity.

At the same time the popularity of sport is growing now. It becomes more and more actual for teens. If someone does a sport he can be even trendy. Friends can support a teenager in this. Or a minor can find new friends in the sports club. Coming into new company and making new friend is definitely important for teenager's social life.

Also I think that being in a good shape can make a teen more confident. He will not feel awkward because of his look.

All in all, it is really important to practise a sport regularly. It will help a teenager to make new friends, become in a good shape and feel better. The more you do sports, the less you get ill.
