Nowadays almost all of us got used to social mobility. But it wasn't like that all the time of existence of our society. It was once a dream of people. Now we see it work<sup>s</sup>. We are not bonded to any places from our birth and can choose the path that we want to.

Let's move on to advantages of social mobility. It's obvious and it comes to mind as <sup>the</sup> a first thought. It's freedom in some kind. Person can change several jobs during life. Also, it became easier to change place of residence. It becomes less complicated to change these important things in our life.

On the other hand this kind of freedom can cause problems. Firstly, it's important to say that it seriously affects countries. They become more economically unstable. People don't spread equally on different jobs. That makes <sup>the</sup> situation with people, who can't find a job, worse. Also, it's important to mention that people who change their place of residence too often, can't feel "at home". It may cause psychological problems.

In conclusion I want to say that social mobility as it is is a great achievement for our society and it is surely a positive development. Unfortunately, it has its own downsides <sup>and problems</sup>, which must be solved in the future.
