Nowadays people usually forget about the importance of taking care of their family members. Due to this fact elderly people often live alone, that is very dangerous, because the great amount of diseases appears at this age. (32)

In my opinion this problem is an agenda. Elderly people should live with their family or in special places being under control. Well, there are a lot of ways to take care of them. (33)

People can use modern technologies like the new sound monitoring system, developed by Fujitsu. The system is refined to differentiate between the sound of a falling object or a collapsing human and can instantly alert family members of security firms if any abnormality is detected. But I think it would be better just to spend time with old people, because nothing can be more pleasant and useful than face-to-face chatting. (106)

In addition I want to say that no matter what way of taking care of elderly people you use: modern technologies or just meetings. Anyway, don't forget about them. (27)
