The question about long summer holidays is very interesting to have a lot of sides to discuss. In my opinion students could have long summer holidays, at the 11th grade I suddenly understood that pupils need more rest and free time. 39

The main problem is what is better for learning. I think if a student is motivated and interested in some subjects, he will learn holidays even more than in ^{the} school. But of course in general it will cause the lower of average percentage of well-educated pupils. ^{Therefore} in this case there are two sides of one medal. 95

The most wonderful part of holidays are leisure activities. You can do whatever you want and whatever you need. For example, you ^{could} wake up at ³ 10 p.m. and easily go for a walk with friends or swimming ^{and} the most amazing part of it that you ^{would} have a bunch of time for some math lessons when you come home. 154

In addition to all positive sides of long summer holidays I can say that a person would have more time ^{to spend} with his family. Maybe even travel to somewhere. For me, it is really important because I ^{don't} have free time to spend with mother at all. 198

In conclusion, my point of view is that we definitely should have long summer holidays, because it brings more positive side than negative
